

Rave Reviews for Paragon's Production of THE GLASS MENAGERIE

"The Glass Menagerie is handled with care by Paragon Theatre." "(Martha Harmon) Pardee's rich, fully realized and powerful performance brings every aspect of Amanda's character to life.

"Barbra Andrews wisely plays Laura not as a swoony, romantic figure, but as a genuinely disturbed young girl. It's a wonderfully muted and subtle performance." "Michael Stricker is pleasingly naturalistic in the role, comfortably and believably breaching the fourth wall." "Josh Hartwell (as the gentleman caller)...brings all the intelligence and ambiguity the role requires."

Juliet Wittman - The Westword

"The emphasis on the characters invites four-dimensional personalities to invade the space seeing them in full force, enabling everyone to hear their stories of truth and un-truth, reality crushed with illusion. The result is The Glass Menagerie becomes fuller, richer and deeper than it's ever been. That's saying a total mouthful because I have experienced some knock out productions that left me reeling. Paragon just takes it into a higher realm." "Whatever your plans, whatever your calendar looks like, just don't miss Paragon's incredibly awesome production."

Holly Bartges - Colorado Backstage

"B+" "Paragon dusts off Williams' war horse and finds a gem."

"Paragon Theatre does an exquisite job with the family drama, banishing less-than-stellar productions to the cobwebs of memory." "Director Warren Sherrill, as has become his identifying style, elevates character development above any presentational gimmicks."

Lisa Bornstein - The Rocky Mountain News